Genealogy Roundtable
Beginners and longtime genealogy researchers are welcome to attend this quarterly Genealogy Roundtable led by Local History & Genealogy Center staff.

The Roundtable provides genealogy enthusiasts interested in researching their own family histories an opportunity to discuss problems in their research and share tips on sources and methodology with other researchers. Bring your family trees, brick walls, successes, Eureka! moments, or favorite website to share with the group!

No registration necessary.

“Young and old alike find that knowing one’s roots, and thus coming better to know who one is, provides a personally rewarding experience. But even more is involved than uncovering a family history, for each discovered United States family history becomes a newly revealed small piece of American history. Stated simply: a nation’s history is only the selective histories of all of its people.”

- Alex Haley
